DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

1. Claims 1-6, 8-24, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly by anticipated Wagner, U.S. Pat. No. 6,728,792, hereinafter '792.
2. As per claims 1-6, 8-18, Wagner '792 teaches the claimed invention comprising: a method of processing incoming jobs, assigning a job priority, servicing jobs based upon a priority and a servicing scheme, at least one job attribute, job request or report, servicing scheme is priority, servicing formula, first-in first-out, formula/servicing overridden by administrator/user, servicing at a late time or cost assigned value or time value or altered schedule/release time or date, a plurality of queues/QICs, selecting and assigning queues based upon priorities, assigning threads to queues. See abstract, figs. 1–4, 9-15, 20-21, col. 1, lines 18-33 et seq. col. 2, lines 5-14, and lines 29-65 et seq., col. 3, lines 19 et seq., col. 4, lines 36-44 et seq., col. 5, lines 15-39 et seq., col. 6, lines 37 et seq., col. 7 and 8, col. 9, lines 25 et seq., claims 1-2, 6-9, and 17. As to the use of sub-queues their priorities, and moving threads, as understood in the claim these features places jobs within sub-queues that are also based upon priority values and moving jobs to another queue. It is believed that '792 accomplished these features by providing sub-queues with their own arbitrary priority variables, which are sub elements and distinct of queues that have arbitrary priority values (col. 2, lines 35-45). The moving of the treads to another queue are believe to have been taught in that the arbitrary placement in queues may be made at runtime based upon changed priorities set at that time (see col. 2, lines 60 et seq., col. 5, lines 10 et seq.).

3. As to claims 19-24, they recite the system and a processor readable medium for performing the process of method claims 1-18. Accordingly, see above for the specifics of the functions and abs. figures 1-2; col. 5, lines 57 et seq., and col. 6. and claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wagner '792 as applied to claims 1-6 and 8-24 above.

As to claim 7, '792 do not explicitly teach performing a formula of fair share that is based upon the number of jobs submitted. The examiner takes official notice of both the modification and motivation necessary to implement the servicing of a job based upon fair share criteria. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify, the sort criteria of '792 to sort and prioritize tasks based upon a fair share criteria, as recited above. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to have a fair share criteria, because, he would have realized that the issue of have a great number of jobs/task submitted would necessarily dictate that if the priority is always given to the highest job that some jobs processing would be adversely delayed or not processed in a timely manner for lower priority jobs/task. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been able to modify the invention of '792 by simply augmenting the sort criteria, via hardware, software or firmware, to have queues or sub-queues for tracking the number of jobs/task submitted by a requestor and having a priority adjusted based upon the submitted number of jobs for a particular requestor.
